

About CUCCIO

The importance of Information Technology (IT) to Canadian universities is undeniable. For our IT professionals, the ability to network with peers, share information and access expertise and specialized development opportunities is integral to their success.

CUCCIO-CDPIUC provides leadership and support to its member institutions in matters relating to Information Technology within Canada's universities.

CUCCIO-CDPIUC supports collaborative initiatives with member universities, such as a pan-Canadian access management federation to support access to protected resources and services, a mechanism for Canadian universities to gather a common set of data for measuring and benchmarking, and a secure, online storehouse of requests for proposals, policies and best practices. We also oversee CANHEIT, Canada's annual national conference on IT in higher education, which takes place each year in the spring.
